Re: AFMA Web Listing 2021 - 2022

Dear Market Manager,

A year ago I wrote to you starting... 'It has and continues to be a truly challenging year for us all, and yet it has been one that has highlighted the fundamental importance of local food systems, and the important role farmers' markets play in our food supply. Farmers' markets have remained reliable sources of local food...'

Roll on yet another challenging year and more than ever we appreciate exactly how vital farmers' markets are in maintaining reliable, healthy food supply and community well-being. Again and again, AFMA hears stories of markets that have surmounted enormous challenges to continue trading, to support farmers and maintain local food supply chains. Your efforts are applauded.

COVID-19

AFMA has continued to advocate government to ensure farmers' markets maintain the designation of 'essential food supply' so the majority of markets can continue trading.

The AFMA COVID-19 FACT SHEET has been widely used and markets have been extremely vigilant in trading with best practice public health safety provisions. AFMA recommends that all markets maintain the most stringent observance of the guidelines ongoing. The detailed FACT SHEET is available here: <https://farmersmarkets.org.au/corona-covid-19-fact-sheet/> and is updated as required.

Significantly, the 'essential service' government ruling still only applies if ALL market stalls are selling food. This has meant in some cases that stallholders selling non-food items have been asked to suspend trading.

ANNUAL WEB DIRECTORY REVIEW

Australia's network of nearly 200 regular farmers' markets matter to so many, so it's very important you check and update your market listings on the AFMA website! We wish to make sure we have accurate details for your market.

Your help and support for this annual activity is greatly appreciated as the AFMA website hosts the only one-stop national listing of farmers' markets, a vital go-to information platform for all stakeholders. The website is our major communications tool and is widely and regularly used.

WEBSITE

Visitation rates to the AFMA site have risen significantly this year, stakeholders and shoppers have all sought more information about the farmers' market sector. Typically users register 1.5 pages per visit. Google Analytics report that an average 85% of the visitors are new, monthly page views 3000 - 5000+ and a rising user trend.

The most popular page is 'Find A Market' and the majority of visitors access the site by mobiles closely followed by desktop.

RESOURCES

The AFMA website Market Directory is widely accessed but the site also includes useful resources for market managers. The News pages are regularly updated (as is the Facebook Page).

We draw your attention to two other important information resources available from the AFMA site:
